

Contributors

Dr. Iman Al-Ghafari is a researcher, writer and translator. She has written extensively on queer and lesbian theories and practices in media and literature. Iman Al-Ghafari received her Ph.D. with first class honors from the English Department in Cairo University on “The Quest for Identity in the Poetry of Sylvia Plath: A Feminist Approach”. She lectured widely on gender and poetry in the 20th century. From 2012-2014, she was a Post-Doctoral Research Fellow at the Amsterdam Research Center for Gender and Sexuality at the University of Amsterdam. Currently, she is a guest researcher in Utrecht University.

Website: <http://arcgs.uva.nl/shared-content/blog/iman.html>; e-mail: dr.iman.gh@gmail.com

Jenny Barrett is a Lecturer in Film studies at Edge Hill University, UK. Her research interests lie in war films, representations of dominant and dangerous women in popular culture and gender and sexuality in popular culture.

Website: <http://www.edgehill.ac.uk/profiles/jenny-barrett>; e-mail: barrettj@edgehill.ac.uk

Tiphaine Besnard studies Sociology at the University of Paris-8, France. She has written extensively on the history of prostitution in France.

Website: <https://univ-paris8.academia.edu/TiphaineBesnard>; e-mail: tiphainebesnard@gmail.com

Alex Dymock is a member of the editorial board of Sexual Ethics and Politics. She is a PhD candidate at University of Reading, completing her thesis on the inheritance of medico-legal theories of sexual perversion on contemporary criminal law in England and Wales. She teaches at the School of Law at Birkbeck, University of London. She has a broad interest in sexualities and genders, feminist and queer theory, and their relationship with law and criminality. She is publishing in a number of journals – Psychology and Sexuality, Sexualities, and Social and Legal Studies – in the areas of female masochism, sexual transgression and capitalism and pornography, truth and obscenity trials. She has also written on the topic of law and sexuality for The Guardian and politics.co.uk.”

Website: <http://reading.academia.edu/AlexDymock>; e-mail: A.C.Dymock@pgr.reading.ac.uk

Lucy Nicholas is an Lecturer in Sociology at Swinburne University of Technology in Australia. Lucy’s research interests focus on gender and sexuality, particularly anarchist and queer theory approaches. Her new book, Queer Post-Gender Ethics:

The Shape of Selves to Come, will be published by Palgrave Macmillan in October 2014

Website: <http://www.swinburne.edu.au/health-arts-design/staff-profiles/view.php?who=lnicholas>; e-mail: lnicholas@swin.edu.au

Marta Olasik is a PhD candidate and lecturer in the Centre for Social Studies on Sexuality at the University of Warsaw. She works in queer sociology and her specialisation covers lesbian (non)identities, sexualities, self-identification(s) and specifically lesbian emotions. She hopes to increase visibility of non-heterosexual women in the Polish social space, and introduce separate academic discourses concerning them.

Website: <https://uw.academia.edu/MartaOlasik>; e-mail: m.olasik@uw.edu.pl

Paul Reynolds is co-convenor of INSEP and co-editor in chief of the Journal of INSEP. He is Reader in Sociology and Social Philosophy at Edge Hill University, UK. He is also co-director of the Cultural Difference and Social Solidarity International Network – <http://differenceandsolidarity.org/>. He writes on sexual ethics and politics, Marxist and radical democratic ethics and politics and the ethics and politics of intellectuals and professionals.

Website: <http://www.edgehill.ac.uk/profiles/paul-reynolds>; e-mail: Paul.Reynolds@edgehill.ac.uk

Emma Sheppard is a PhD student at Edge Hill University, UK. Emma's thesis is entitled 'Kinked and Crippled: disabled BDSM practitioner's experiences and embodiments of pain'. Emma's research interests lie principally in the intersection of studies in gender and sexuality and disability.

Website: <https://edgehill.academia.edu/EmmaSheppard>, e-mail: EmmaLaurenSheppard@gmail.com

Elizabeth Smith is a Research Officer at the Australian Research Centre in Sex, Health, and Society at La Trobe University, Melbourne, Australia. She works on research projects that centre on the prevention of violence against women and the identifying the mental health needs of gender diverse young people.

Website: <http://www.latrobe.edu.au/health/about/staff/profile?uname=E5Smith>; e-mail: E.Smith3@latrobe.edu.au

Angelika Tsaros is a member of the editorial board of Sexual Ethics and Politics. She is a doctoral candidate at the University of Graz, completing a thesis on Gender and Power Relations in Popular Media Representations of Sadomasochism funded by a research grant awarded by Austrian BM:WF. She is also a language trainer.

Website: <http://www.linkedin.com/in/tsaros>; e-mail: angelika_tsaros@yahoo.com